

By SOWETAN REPORTER

After a successful conclusion of Season 2 of the Betway 12th Man programme, the participants have started the new year off with a bang!

The third-place winner of the Betway 12th Man Business Innovation Series, Benson Mhlongo, was appointed as Cape Town Spurs new assistant coach. A former player for Mamelodi Sundowns and Orlando Pirates, Mhlongo won two league titles with both clubs, showcasing his expertise and leadership on the field. He will now lend that experience to help guide Cape Town Spurs alongside head coach Ernst Middendorp.

The second-place winners of the series, Dino Bagattin and Hekkie Budler, have joined forces to establish Nice Guys Management (PTY) Ltd.

Nice Guys Management is committed to offering self-defence classes to girls in underserved communities, where Dino and Hekkie teach essential techniques to help these young women escape dangerous situations. Nice Guys Management is also dedicated to supporting and managing both mixed martial artists and boxers.

Winner of the series, Nontle Gwavu, is dedicated to empowering youth and creating opportunities for individuals who is passionate about helping talented young girls by offering scholarships through universities, ensuring that they have the chance to pursue higher education and unlock their full potential.

One of the participants, Janine Van Wyk, has recently completed her CAF B Licence and UEFA B Licence, positioning herself as a well-rounded coach ready to take the reins at JVW Blue Diamonds.

Former professional footballer Benedict "Tso" Vilakazi has stepped into a new chapter of his career as the head coach of Prestige Academy. In his new role, Tso will oversee all the academy's teams, ensuring players are equipped with the essential skills and knowledge needed to pursue successful football careers in the future.
